More information

Aircraft 44-40245 was flying at eleven o'clock in relation to the aircraft in which I was flying. All of a sudden the aircraft nosed up, turned right, pulled up and then dove nose down into the ground. The plane was intact prior to hitting the ground, and as far as I could see was not on fire. As soon as the aircraft nosed into the ground it exploded and was completely enveloped in flames. I am quite sure that it had dropped its supplies as the bomb bay doors were closed. I saw no one leave the wreckage.
